Sheriff arrests seven on alcohol violations

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson said seven grocery sales clerks were arrested Saturday afternoon for allegedly selling alcoholic beverages to minors.

dead serious about not allowing the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors," Peterson stated in announcing the arrests.

Peterson's warning to alcoholic beverage retailers was carried in a Sea Coast Echo news story Feb. 14 in which the sheriff stated, "Since I was elected sheriff, I have received numerous complaints about retailers selling beer to persons under the age of 18," adding, "...the law will be strictly enforced."

"Two of the clerks arrested were juveniles themselves, and my understanding of the law is that a person must be at least 18 years or older to dispense beer," Peterson added.

The sheriff reports arrests were made at Winn-Dixie Food Store, Bay St. Louis Shopping Center; A & P Food Store, Bay Mall Shopping Center; Majik Market, Ballentine Street and Central Avenue; Majik Market, US-90 and Washington, all in Bay St. Louis; National Supermarket, Our Shopping Center; and Junior Food Store, both in Waveland; and Garcia's Grocery, Clermont Harbor.

Peterson allowed, "The seven arrests were made when the clerks sold beer to a 16-year-old juvenile who is an auxiliary member of Hancock County Sheriff's Department Junior Deputies."

"We watched the sales being made to the juvenile, as we kept him under surveillance," the sheriff continued.

No arrests were made at the following stores which were also investigated, according to the sheriff: Jitney Jungle, North Second Street; Majik Market, US-90 and Dunbar Avenue, both in Bay St. Louis; and Ma-

One dead in 19-vehicle chain collision on I-10

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
One man was killed, another was severely burned and eight people and a horse received various injuries after 19 vehicles, including four tractor-trailer trucks, collided in a series of accidents in the east and west bound lanes of I-10 at the Delisle interchange about 7:30 p.m. Friday evening.

Hancock County Coroner Carl Ban-deret said Saturday Raymond Krause, 57, of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., died at Hancock General Hospital Friday night from multiple internal injuries suffered in the accident.

Gerald Basile, 43, of Houma, La. was transferred from Gulfport Memorial Hospital to Oschner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans suffering from multiple severe burns, a Gulfport Memorial Hospital spokesman said Saturday afternoon.

One of the six state highway patrolmen on the accident scene, Curtis Newman, said Saturday afternoon, "According to eye witness reports, about 7:30 p.m. Friday a brown station wagon stopped on top of the Delisle westbound overpass on I-10 because of dense fog. A pickup truck with a horse trailer slowed down to avoid the car and was hit from behind by a tractor-trailer truck."

"The brown station wagon was not hit and left the scene of the accident," the patrolman added.

"Two trucks, traveling side-by-side in the westbound lanes, in trying to avoid hitting the vehicles in the first collision, jackknifed into each other," Newman explained.

"Then, a man on a motorcycle ran up between the trucks, hitting the front tire of one of the jackknifed tractor-trailers," Newman said.

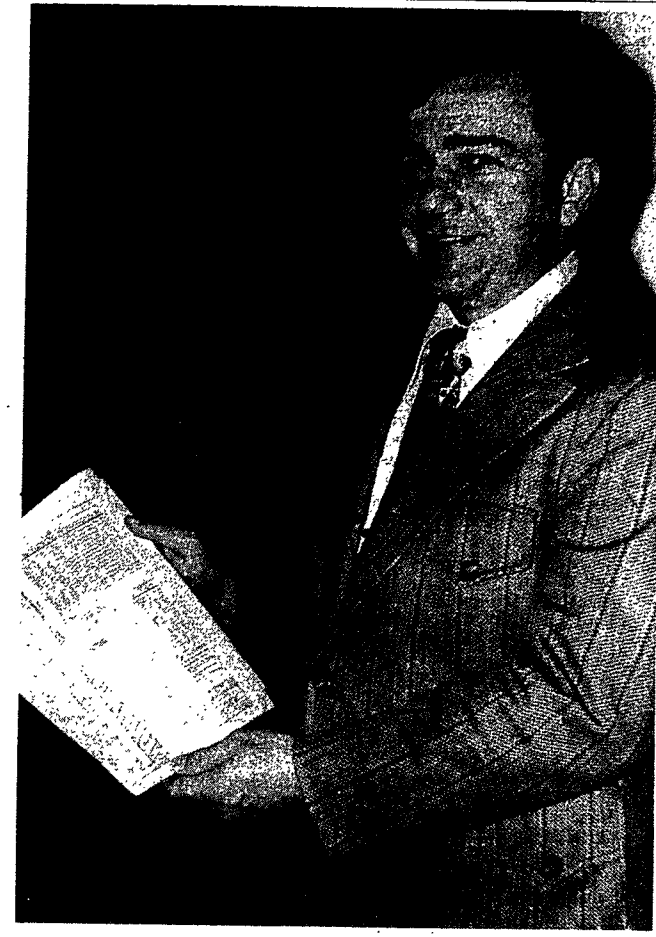

"The man on the motorcycle received only minor injuries," the patrolman added.

"Then, in a subsequent series of collisions, five other vehicles behind the jackknifed trucks in the westbound lane ran into one another trying to avoid the trucks blocking the road," Newman continued.

"After that, in the eastbound lane, a car stopped in the middle of the road to look at the wrecks in the westbound lane. A Pinto ran into the back of that stopped car," Newman reported.

"A tractor-trailer then ran into the back of the Pinto causing it to explode. Basile was a passenger in the Pinto," the patrolman said.

Bay gets $49,747 windmill money

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The City of Bay St. Louis has been awarded a $49,747 U.S. Department of Energy grant for construction of six electric power generating windmills to supply several city installations.

City Councilman James Thriffley, who spearheaded the windmill project, said Friday-afternoon-if plans proceed as anticipated, "we hope to have the windmills in operation sometime in June of this year."

"We are now drawing up plans and specifications and City Planner Ronnie Murray and I will present these at the March 4 city council meeting," the councilman said.

"At that time we will recommend the WINDMILLS-Page 8A

Hawkettes qualify for state tourney

By EDGAR PEREZ
Hancock North Central Girls Basketball Team has earned a slot in the Mississippi High School Class A State Tournament this week in Jackson.

The Hawkettes defeated Madison-Richland 50 to 31 Friday night in Morton in South-State Tournament semi-final play to automatically advance to the Jackson event.

Hawkettes manager Paula Ladner said from Morton Saturday the team will head for the state tourney in Jackson Wednesday. Play will begin next Saturday, she said.

The Hawkettes were slated to face Mendenhall in the South State Tourney finals at 8 p.m. last night, but outcome of that game does not affect the team's eligibility for the statewide tournament, Ms. Ladner noted.

In the Friday night semi-final contest against Madison-Richland, high scorer for the HNC ladies was Joye Lee with 16.

High scorer for Madison-Richland was Brenda Rouser with 14.

Hawkettes Shelley Dedeaux and Shaynon Ladner scored 12 each. Other HNC scorers were Susie Necaise, 5; Cindy Odum, 4; and MeMe Ladner, 1.

Shaynon Ladner was credited with 11 rebounds in the contest.

Other statistics show Joye Lee with 5 rebounds, 1 steal and 2 assists; Shelley Dedeaux with 3 rebounds, 3 steals and 5 assists; Cindy Odum with 6 rebounds and 2 assists; and Susie Necaise, 6 rebounds.

Hawkettes' score by quarters was 6-16-9-19; Madison-Richland scored 4-12-5-10.

Diboll alone in election

Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board Trustee Betty Diboll of Waveland will be unopposed in a bid for re-election Saturday, March 1.

Superintendent J. D. McCullough said Friday Diboll is the only candidate to qualify in the election to be conducted at Bay Senior High from 2 to 5 p.m.

Qualified voters living in the Waveland city limits and the unincorporated areas of Hancock County which are included in the Bay St. Louis school district are eligible to vote in the election, McCullough explained.

Diboll will be named to a five year term on the board.

US-90 Hospitality Center addition to house senior citizen craft shop

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Mayor John Longo of Waveland said at a Wednesday evening recess meeting of the Board of Aldermen the city, "is now in a position to go ahead with the proposed senior citizen's outlet shop behind the hospitality center on US-90."

"The building will cost the city about $3,000 for materials and maybe we can have it up by summer," Longo added. "High school juniors and seniors enrolled in Pearl River Junior College-Hancock County Vo-Tech Center building trades program will be involved in constructing the 420 square foot building here at our school," Center Director Alvin Bourgeois said Friday morning.

"We talked with Supervisor Sam Pernicaro a few weeks ago and he said he could trailer the building to the Waveland site for us," Bourgeois reported.

"The outlet shop will be a wood frame building matching the existing configuration. In other words, we will use

United Gas returned $61,000

Bay Council balks at sharing rebate

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Gerry Lang, Concerned Citizens chairman appeared before the Bay Council Wednesday seeking a commitment from that body as to when city utilities customers might expect to receive a rebate.

"About January 10, there was a news story about United Gas, the supplier to Bay St. Louis, having to give a rebate to all of its customers—so what are your intentions?" Ms. Lang questioned.

Bay St. Louis City Clerk Kelly McQueen said the city had received a rebate in the amount of $61,000 but may have to pay it back because United Gas has appealed the ruling.

The Clerk said, "We did receive a rebate; but they (United Gas) refilled and we may have to give it all back, or part. That refund covers a period of eight years."

When United Gas had to give the rebate back they also increased the rates to make up for what they had given back," McQueen added.

McQueen also mentioned the fact that the utility department has borrowed more than $90,000 from other departments at this time and could not afford to pay the rebate back right now. McQueen mentioned the city's billing problems.

Ms. Lang replied, "I don't know about all of that, but we would like to get some money back."

Council President Pete Benvenuti commented, "One of the utility department's problems has been with council president.

Mrs. Lang replied, "I will be back."

A utility survey being conducted on the rates by Barbay Engineers is reportedly underway with a meeting scheduled next week with the Concerned Citizens group and the Bay Council.

Cadet icehouse receives approval

By RICH ADAMS

Gulf Fishermen Incorporated, a group of some 37 Hancock County fishermen, agreed Thursday night to relinquish a lease on a portion of dock at Bayou Cadet to allow Elliot Casanova to construct an icehouse at the marina.

The Hancock Port and Harbor Commission then passed a resolution Thursday supporting the proposed icehouse, but that resolution must be approved by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors at a Mar. 3 meeting before any construction may begin on bulkheads for the icehouse.

The fishermen agreed to relinquish the lease only after the commission committed itself to dredge a slip next to the proposed new industry and build an 80 foot bulkhead to halt erosion near the icehouse.

After the resolution was passed and Casanova and members of the fishermen's group had left the board room, Port and Harbor Executive Director Wilson W. Webre discussed with the commission costs of constructing a bulkhead and dredging a slip to allow fishing boats access to the icehouse.

The proposal by Casanova initially met objections from the fishermen when Tommy Holzhauer, spokesman for Gulf Fishermen Inc., said one-third of a docking area on the west side of the marina would be needed for Casanova to load ice onto boats.

Casanova explained a slip runs beside the proposed icehouse and said boats could eventually load in that slip.

Holzhauer told the commission that the slip, originally dredged by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers some 11 years ago, is two-feet in depth at low tide and needs to be dredged.

"We cannot afford to lose the docking space on the outside of the marina," Holzhauer said.

"As far as us going into the inside slip to load ice, it is too shallow. If it were dredged to the proper depth, we would be able to fit any sized boat into the slip," he added.

Casanova said he has to begin pouring a foundation for his icehouse next week if he is to be able to provide ice for fishermen when the next shrimp season begins.

Commissioner Ronnie Artigues told Holzhauer, "The fishermen must make a small sacrifice because a private individual is making a considerable investment here."

Holzhauer then said he has received numerous calls from other members of the fishermen's group saying they want to tie up on the front docking area which Casanova plans to use as a loading dock.

"We aren't going to sell the house to buy a new living room set... Since I got back from New Orleans yesterday I have received 15 telephone calls from members asking if they will still be able to tie up in that area," Holzhauer told the commission.

"If this project is going to receive this much backlash, I will not be the one to force my icehouse on you," Casanova told the fishermen.

Billy Bernos, another fisherman, told Casanova the fishermen wanted to run their own icehouse.

Commissioner Dave McDonald told the fishermen and Casanova he would commit the commission to make certain improvements to suit the situation.

"The commission will get a surveyor down to Bayou Cadet, dredge out the west side slip, and build a bulkhead between 80 and 100 feet. The fishermen must agree, in writing, to allow Mr. Casanova to load ice from the front docking area until the slip is dredged," McDonald said.

Both Casanova and the fishermen agreed to the proposal.

Holzhauer said other fishermen told him materials for a bulkhead have been donated and said two fishermen have volunteered to dredge the slip.

McDonald said the two projects, dredging and constructing the bulkhead, will cost the commission money.

"Speaking as an individual, I am in favor of making these expenditures in order to expedite this project. This is the biggest step taken at Bayou Cadet in a long, long time," McDonald said.

Commissioner Vic Frankiewicz suggested the commission "talk figures," and told the port body the going price for bulkhead materials is approximately $300 per running foot. "Theoretically, we will get revenue from the icehouse in the long run," Frankiewicz said.

On a motion by McDonald, seconded by Commissioner Fred Curet, the board adopted the resolution.

The lease will be for 20 years, renegotiable every five years to allow for expansion.

The proposed icehouse will be capable of producing nearly 40 tons of ice daily with storage capacity of 200 tons, according to Casanova.

The county will receive 10 cents per ton of ice produced in addition to $50 a month rental, according to Webre.

Also Thursday, the board discussed expending funds for construction of the bulkhead and obtaining a permit for dredging.

Commissioner Ronnie Artigues said, "We have no choice but to ask an engineer to design the bulkhead."

Webre complained that the commission may not have funds to begin the construction.

"You want to tell me to draw the designs. Well, not only are you as a commission going to have to draw the designs, you are also going to have to build and maintain the structures. We don't have funds for this and we never have gotten revenue sharing from the supervisors," Webre complained.

Artigues countered Webre's complaints by telling the director to shut down operation of other commission projects because they are "economically unfeasible."

"We are here to create jobs and industry at Bayou Cadet. That man (Casanova) is investing $300,000 into this project, and we should be able to add $25,000 or so to make it work. If we cannot afford this, let's just shut down Stennis Airfield and Port Blenville (Industrial Park), because nothing this commission has ever done is economically feasible," Artigues said. "Right now we have fuel at the marina. With an ice house there, the only problem will be docking. This will solve the fishermen's problems for a long time," he added.

Curet moved the commission employ Fromherz Engineers of New Orleans to draft the design for the bulkhead and slip.

McDonald seconded the motion, which was approved by the commission.

Frankiewicz abstained from voting on the matter.

The commission adjourned until Wed., Feb. 27 at 7:30 p.m.

It seems there is a new phobia going around at night in Bay St. Louis, the breaking of beer bottles all over the streets.

On our way to work Friday morning we noticed two batches of broken bottles on the streets.

We hope the folks who use the suds bottles will dispose of them properly because some child could cut himself severely or drivers get flat tires.

In a conversation with a fellow rotarian Thursday morning, he seemed to be one of many who thought Wednesday was Monday, as he gave that reason for missing his regular weekly meeting.

It is hard to get on track with a big holiday such as Mardi Gras in the middle of the week.

We understand there was a landslide business Wednesday in headache remedies.

We would like to congratulate our longtime friend Joseph Scharff for being the recipient of a Paul Harris Fellowship.

Mr. Joe served the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club as president way back in the year of 1935-36. He and his wife operated a supermarket for many years in Bay St. Louis a while back, before retirement.

Mr. Scharff is the second member of the Bay Rotarian Club to be so honored. Carl Smith is the other Bay Rotarian to have received the distinguished honor.

Health Tip

From American Medical Association

High Blood Pressure Affects Many Adults

An estimated 23 million Americans — 20 per cent of the adult population — have high blood pressure. Only about half of these individuals know they have high blood pressure, and only a minority of those who do know are being treated effectively.

Why do so many of us ignore this serious health hazard? Everyone knows that high blood pressure is bad for our health. Why don't we have blood pressure checked regularly? Why don't we begin treatment when the blood pressure is too high?

Because high blood pressure is a silent disease. Unless you have seen a doctor, you don't know you have it. And, even after you find out, it doesn't hurt. So why bother?

High blood pressure is one of the great killers. It can shorten your life by contributing to failure of your heart, arteries, kidneys and brain, the American Medical Association declares.

A nationwide screening effort has been underway for several years in America to locate those persons with high blood pressure and get them started on treatment. High blood pressure can be controlled. And the result is a greatly lowered risk of serious disease and death.

Don't panic about your blood pressure, but protect your health and your life by keeping in mind five facts —

1. High blood pressure is a silent disease; it almost never has symptoms and a person does not feel sick.

2. It is a major cause of stroke, heart failure and kidney failure, but these disorders often can be prevented with control of high blood pressure.

3. It can be controlled by taking medications prescribed by your physician and by following his advice about life style.

4. High blood pressure medication should be taken every day, even if the patient feels well.

5. All adults, every one of us, should have blood pressure checked regularly.

It cannot be overemphasized that high blood pressure will not be cured, it will only be controlled. Thus it is vital to continue the therapy prescribed by the physician even after the blood pressure level has been lowered sufficiently. Abandon treatment and the pressure climbs again.

The new facility will contain a children's room with fun furniture, a meeting room with audio-visual equipment, and a capacity of 2,000 books. The trailer now being used as the Kiln Library will be moved to Pearlington for use there. Ms. Wusnack said the new facility will officially open in April during National Library Week. Many folks have worked long and hard to improve the library facilities in Hancock County. The library system has come a long way during the past few years, and we hope the growth will continue. We are glad to see the permanent building at Kiln opening in April and hope someday there will be one to replace the trailer in Pearlington which in turn will move to another part of our County.

Save not, have not.

You cannot spend tomorrow what you have not saved today.

So the wise save for tomorrow by joining the Payroll Savings Plan today.

Because mighty U.S. Savings Bonds from little paycheck allotments grow.

And a Bond every payday could keep your doctor-to-be away. At medical school. Or take you away. On vacation.

So do put off for tomorrow what you can save today. Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

For, remember, a rolling Bond gathers no moss. But it does gather interest.

Which is why a Bond in time saves.

Sea Coast Echo
Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

In reference to the statement made in Sunday's newspaper Feb. 17 by former Hancock North Central basketball player and current official Mike Ladner: "Our kids need a decent education. I attended Hancock North Central and when I attempted to go to Pearl River Junior College, I could not compete academically with the other students."

I find this statement very degrading to our school system and feel that Mike Ladner should not judge our curriculum on own failure.

I attended Hancock North Central for 12 years and I am now classified as a sophomore at Pearl River Junior College and have made all A's and one B plus.

I feel that you get out of school what you put into it and if a person isn't academically capable of achieving, it is because his priorities were set in the wrong places.

We have many people who received their elementary and high school education at Hancock North Central and have achieved academically.

For example, we have doctors, veterinarians, dentists, nurses, teachers and secretaries whose education foundations were laid at HNC.

Sincerely,
Vickie Necaise
HNC Graduate

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL —
THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

UP FROM 50th

Recent reports by economic crystal ball gazers reveal that the coming decade of the 80's will be one of growth, productivity, and prosperity for Americans.

Looking beyond present difficulties, these economists believe that in the coming decade incomes will overtake inflation, businesses will flourish, unemployment will fall, and living standards will rise.

And, according to the economists, Mississippi will benefit greatly from this new prosperity. In fact, they expect us to move from 50th place in the next decade to 45th place on the nation's per capita income ladder, ahead of Idaho, Maine, New Mexico, and South Dakota. The state's per capita income — based on 1978 dollars — will increase, they say, from $6,971 in 1980 to $10,130 in 1990.

But Mississippi cannot wait and let this anticipated prosperity just "happen." We must take steps to make full use of the opportunities on the horizon. The necessary steps have been identified in the Mississippi Economic

Council's study, "Breaking Barriers to Economic Advancement — Moving Mississippi Off the Bottom."

MEC, the voice of business in Mississippi, recommends that the following steps be taken:

— Organize an alliance among the southern states to preserve the region's federally based economic incentives and to counter federal legislation which has been, and will continue to be, introduced in Congress to hamper northern industries from moving to the Sunbelt.

— Maintain and protect Mississippi's favorable business climate.

— Create within the office of the Governor a cabinet-level position of senior economic advisors.

— Improve and protect the professional stature of the state's industrial development agency and its work.

— Encourage the development of small, home-owned businesses.

— Improve the level of education of Mississippians, concentrating on the development of basic skills in the elementary grades.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I've always heard advertising doesn't cost anybody anything — it pays for itself. If this is true, why is it that some of the most expensive stores I've been in are such big advertisers? Clothes Horse.

Dear C.H.: Advertising gets more customers into stores, which lowers the per unit cost of goods sold. It also makes mass production possible, which further lowers per unit cost.

Most retailers design their advertising to produce even higher volume sales, primarily by stressing low prices.

Exclusive, quality stores must have volume also, though generally not as much as lower profit margin outlets.

Their advertising is designed to build volume with customers willing to pay more for exclusive goods, prestige and atmosphere. Much of the prestige associated with these stores results from their price advertising.

Price of goods is a key factor in both advertisers' messages. One gets the desired traffic and sales through lower prices — the second selects prospects and perpetuates his reputation with higher prices. Customers benefit in both instances by also getting what they want, and at lower prices.

The exclusive stores frequently use clearance sales for out-of-season and overstocked merchandise. Here the emphasis is still on quality. Since previous advertising has established regular prices, the sale is believable.

This is not to be confused with the discount, who never advertises or sells at "regular" prices and uses them only to show "savings."

I always buy the cheaper products that are not advertised. Prudent Shopper.

Dear Prude: You ought to buy some of the advertised brands occasionally and see what you're missing. Rarely is advertising a factor in high cost. Advertising lowers cost by increasing overall sales. You're missing more than the bandwagon.

Theresa Hubert, vice president, reported on a recent workshop at Holiday Inn in Gulfport where the Southern Chapters met with the state director, Fay Lossing.

Steward Bauer, Assistant State Director, hosted the meeting.

The chapters exchanged ideas on issues which help make better chapters.

Attending from Hancock Chapters were Mrs. Oschmann, Mrs. Hubert; Joe Servat, legislative chairman; Mrs. Julia Loup, membership chairman; and Paul Loup, tax-aid overall coordinator.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Benigno were honored on occasion of their 45th Wedding Anniversary.

Mrs. Oschmann baked a large cake with cherries and small American flags on top.

Tables were decorated in red, white and blue and American flags honorary George Washington's Birthday.

Refreshments of chicken salad sandwiches, stuffed eggs, hot bean soup and coffee were served at the close of the meeting.

VA News

Q - What burial benefits does the VA provide?

A - VA will pay up to $300 toward a wartime veteran's burial expenses. Up to $150 additional will be paid as a plot or interment allowance provided the veteran is not buried in a national cemetery.

If the veteran's death is service connected VA will pay up to $1,100 of burial expenses. Under certain circumstances, cost of transporting remains from place of death to place of burial is also payable.

Q - Can a school be held liable for veterans' individual educational overpayments?

A - A school is potentially liable for overpayments directly resulting from false certifications of registration or attendance or failure to report changes in the status of veterans attending the school.

Q - I am a student participating in the Veterans Administration work-study program. What is the earliest effective date of my work-study contract?

A - The beginning of the certified enrollment period at the college you are attending.

Q - May a veteran obtain a VA guaranteed loan on a home which appraises lower than the sales price?

A - Yes, provided the veteran pays the difference in cash from his own resources without borrowing. VA will not guarantee a loan in excess of the appraised value of the property.

Double ring ceremony unites Cuevas, Holley

Janice Louise Cuevas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cuevas of the Ladner Community in Harrison County, and Gerald Edward Holley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Holley Sr. of Dedeaux, were married Saturday afternoon, February 9, in St. William's Catholic Church in Ladner Community.

Rev. John McSpirts performed the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Sue Davis and Mrs. Dorothy Jean Malley, aunt of the groom, read the scriptures. Dianne Reed, organist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an antebellum gown of Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. The basque bodice featured a Sabrina neckline enhanced with jewels and long tapered sleeves ending in ruffles; the softly flowing skirt of ruffled tiers drifted into a cathedral train. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a jeweled caplet encircled with matching Chantilly lace and she carried a bouquet of white and blue roses interspersed with lily of the valley and baby's breath.

Linda Gayle Ladner attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sue Davis and Cindy Holley; sister of the groom; Kim Cuevas, cousin of the bride; Becky Ladner, and Linda Peterson; cousin of the groom. Flower girl was Crystal Peterson, cousin of the groom, Kirk Cuevas, brother of the bride, served as ring bearer.

The groom was attended by his cousin, Bennie Malley, as best man. Groomsman were Ricky Davis, brother-in-law of the groom; Danny Ladner, Jimmy Parker, Earl Cuevas, brother of the bride, and Wayne Swilley. Lacy Cuevas Sr., uncle of the bride, and David Peterson, cousin of the groom, served as ushers. The bridesmaids wore royal blue satin tiered style dresses, pale blue hats and carried a long stem pale blue rose interspersed with baby's breath and blue ribbon streamers.

The mother of the bride wore a pale blue floor length gown with long lace jacket and a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the groom chose a floor length blue dress and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Kiln VFW hall. Mrs. Marie Williams, aunt of the bride, presided at the cake table; and Mrs. Debra Storey kept the guest register. Tea girls were Sherree Warren, cousin of the bride, and Ledia Holley, sister of the groom.

Upon their return from a wedding trip the couple will reside in Pass Christian.

SPEAKS OF LOVE

Dr. Leo Buscaglia, quickly becoming a leading figure in the "human potential movement," delivers his second lecture on public television at 7 p.m., Sunday, March 2. "Speaking of Love" can be seen on the Mississippi Educational Television Network. In the one-hour address, taped before a live audience at the Community Center Theatre in Sacramento, Buscaglia offers his thoughts on the "limitless concept" of love and the human potential for giving. Buscaglia maintains that personal growth can be self-directed. "You have all the resources you need within you to heal yourself," he says, "and you might as well start right now." Buscaglia is professor of education at the University of Southern California. For a number of years, he has taught a class at the University entitled "Love 1-A."

Area consumer specialist tells tax exemptions

MONEY TALKS

By NORINE BARNES
The Revenue Act of 1978 allows a homeowner 55 years or older to exempt a gain of up to $100,000 from taxation. To qualify, the taxpayer must have owned and used the home as principal residence for three-of-the-five years preceding the sale.

While the law is particularly beneficial to those in very high tax brackets, rising real estate prices mean the exclusion can make an important difference to many homeowners.

In the past, the exclusion was only available to a taxpayer over 65 and covered the profit on a home with a sales price of up to $35,000; if the home sold for more than that, only part of the gain could be excluded.

To figure the size of the exclusion allowed under the new law, a taxpayer subtracts from the selling price of the home the "basis" - that is, the original price and the cost of substantial improvements made since the purchase - and selling costs, such as brokers' commissions, legal expenses, and so on; $100,000 of the remainder is tax-free. For instance, on the sale of a home with an original purchase price of $20,000 and improvements costing $10,000 that sold for $85,000 and had selling costs of $5,000, the seller would gain $50,000, all of which would be excludable.

A person close to the qualifying age may want to wait to sell his house until age 55; it may even be worthwhile to move out and rent the house for the last two years of the five-year residency period. On the other hand, a relatively young qualifier who intends to buy another house may choose to pay taxes on the first sale, planning to exclude a much larger gain later on the sale of the second home.

A taxpayer who is thinking of taking advantage of the home sale tax exclusion should also consider the following points:

- the home must be the principal residence, that which the seller occupied most of the time;

- a husband and wife may claim the exclusion only as a couple - a separate exclusion is not granted to a married person under any circumstances;

- a claim to an exclusion can be revoked at any time during the period for filing an amended tax return - three years from the due date of the return or two years from the date the tax was paid.

For more detailed information about the $100,000 exclusion, consult the Internal Revenue Service publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling or Purchasing Your Home," available through local IRS offices.

An Easter Egg Stocked With Candies

Decorate the eggs in which pantyhose are packed, and fill them with jelly beans large or small. Spray paper doilies in the color you want - or a combination of colors - let them dry. Fit doilies over each half. Trim most of excess off. Brush Elmer's Glue-All over egg halves and back of doilies. Wait a minute or two until glue becomes tacky. Then place doily on egg half molding it over egg. Wipe off excess glue with slightly damp cloth. When completely dry trim edge with a sharp scissors or a razor, and apply another coating of glue to add shine and to smooth down any stray corners.

McDonnell, Kilburn wed in Maryland ceremonies

Jeanne Marie McDonnell, daughter of Captain and Mrs. John Richard McDonnell of Diamondhead, and Raymond Ralph Kilburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Wolfe of Tampa, Florida, recently were united in marriage at St. Columbia Church in Oxon Hill, Maryland.

Reverend Lawrence Wempe performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of tiered Chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of orange blossoms trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis, carnations, and miniature chrysanthemums.

Miss Sheila McDonnell attended her sister as maid of honor. Miss Christine McDonald of Oxon Hill, Maryland was bridesmaid. They wore floor length gowns of teal blue quiana and carried bouquets of yellow feathered carnations with white daisies.

The groom selected Mr. Edson Beall of Silver Spring,

Maryland as best man.

Mr. Steven Crets of Forestville, Maryland ushered guests.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception dinner was held at Andrews Air Force Base Officers' Club.

For their wedding trip to Ocean City, the bride chose a turquoise silk suit with matching accessories.

The Kilburns are presently settled in Landover Hills, Maryland.

The wedding will be solemnized March 2 at 2 p.m. in Seventh Street Baptist Church, Little Rock.

TRACEY-ASHER ENGAGEMENT-Richard Tracey, son of Mrs. Hazel Tracey of Waveland, and Donna Marie Asher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Asher of Shoreline Park, are engaged to be married, according to an announcement by her parents. The couple has not yet set a wedding date.

Petunia plants require space

Petunias can deceive beginning gardeners. They see baby plants in bloom and refuse to believe they can increase in size 10 to 20 times, says Jim Perry, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service horticulturist.

Gardeners often cram the seedlings too close together. Six weeks later the dense mass of foliage and blossoms splits apart and caves in from its own weight, thrusting up green hummocks. Gone is the level, symmetrical flower bed envisioned.

"How different it would be if you gave petunias room, as much as two between transplants," says Perry.

Each plant would shoot out ground-hugging laterals. Then, over a period of many weeks, "vertical branches" would form, each bearing the large blossoms that go with juvenile growth.

Not until late in the season would the layers of branches lose their symmetry. The deteriorating effects of old age, seed pods and smaller blossoms would be delayed until late in the season.

Stores granted stay on sidewalk project

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A proposed sidewalk relocation project on North Beach Boulevard will be delayed until after Easter, Bay Council President Pete Benvenuti reported Wednesday night.

Benvenuti said, "We had talked about starting the project today, but we have been contacted by some of the merchants in the area. They asked we hold off until after Easter."

At the last Council meeting it was mentioned by Mrs. Jerry Seuzeneau that the Easter Season was the busiest part of the year for her children's wear store.

Mrs. Corky Schindler in the audience Wednesday, part owner of the Little Mushroom, expressed appreciation for the Council's new action.

Mrs. Schindler commented, "We appreciate it, (delaying the sidewalk project) and we thank you."

In other business, Joe Brown III of Brown Engineers, Inc., reported on the 1978 Small Cities project saying it should be completed within a month.

"The contractor has been set back a little because of ground water problems and well pointing, he should be finished by Mar. 14," Brown reported.

Brown mentioned the contractor's liquidated damage amount "as of today was $12,900" and by Mar. 14 will be $15,750.

Brown mentioned that retainage of the monies for the contract exceeds $19,000 at this time.

The contractor for the $194,711 project for water and sewerage improvements in the 500 block of Washington, Kellar and Sycamore Streets was late in getting started.

Brown mentioned in previous Council meeting how the contractor, Beta Enterprises, had been doing items not in the contract such as moving clam shells and clay gravel to help provide access by the residents of the area.

Brown substituted a letter he sent to Graham Construction Company in reference to a street cave-in on Turner Street. Graham was the contractor for the Bouslog Sewer Extension EDA project last year.

The letter said "Please be advised that the sewer defect originally reported to you on Nov. 29, 1979 by the City of Bay St. Louis continues to be a problem although you attempted to repair."

The letter dated Feb. 16 by Brown mentioned he had investigated the cave-in on the previous day and determined that infiltration of water and sand continues in the manhole.

The engineer closed the letter by stating, "...The situation is becoming critical. Please arrange to have the work corrected under provision of the general conditions of the contract..."

The Council received a report from James Chiniche on several projects he is engineer on for the Bay.

On the sidewalk relocation on North Beach between Main and deMontilzin Avenue, the engineer reported preparation of the final plans is completed.

Chiniche reported an estimate of $28,600 if work done on contract and if city workers did the job $14,900 for materials and $7,900 for labor.

Council discussed the drainage problems with the engineer and he told them he is now studying recommendations, with the inspections complete.

Chiniche submitted a design plan of the drainage at the large subdivision which has over 100 homes.

"When the subdivision was constructed it was with shallow ditches, the perimeter ditches are filled full of debris and trash. Some of the problems with the drainage will be easy to solve and others will be hard," Chiniche reported.

Council member Wilmer Seymour mentioned another item he would like to see studied in reference to the Spanish Acres subdivision and that would be another entrance.

Fred Wagner asked the engineer, "Have you checked with the railroad as yet about the drainage," and Chiniche said no because he wanted to get all the final recommendations first.

In talking about another exit for the subdivision, Chiniche said, in reference to a railroad crossing, "They are trying to close exists instead of opening more."

On the drainage ditch which is under the railroad tracks, Council was told, "You (the City) have pay for a bridge and they are expensive."

"Council discussed possibilities and gave indications of trying to seek another entrance to the subdivision."

Council instructed Kelly McQueen, city clerk, and Ronnie Murray to look into the possibility of securing some Farmers Home Loan Administration grants and loans for water extension on the US-90.

Council took under study a new ordinance setting up City departments submitted by Joseph Gex, board attorney.

On the purchase order procedures, Gex reported he had contacted the attorney general's office and was asked to make the request in writing.

Before closing the meeting, McQueen reported he had received a letter from Law Enforcement Assistance Administration giving the approval of a grant for the purchase of a generator for the police department.

There was some question if Bay St. Louis would receive the grant after the generator was advertised for, but recent telephone calls had given the go ahead and council was waiting for it in writing.

McQueen was instructed to purchase the generator from the low bidder.

NASA plans 3-day Black History Month program

"Past, Present, Future" is the theme of the National Space Technology Laboratories' program in observance of Black History Month Wednesday through Friday.

The program features prominent speakers and a variety of entertainment.

All activities will be held in the auditorium of Building 1200 beginning at 9 a.m. each day. The public is invited to attend all events.

The Black History Month observance was arranged by the NSTL Association for Cultural Awareness, a new group whose members represent various NSTL agencies and contractors.

Jerry Hlaas, NSTL manager, will give the welcome address at the program's opening session. Serving as master of ceremonies will be Donald Coney of NASA and Billy Knight, host of WLOX-TV's "Ebony Experience."

Speakers scheduled for Feb. 27 include Dr. E.C. Foster, assistant director, Black Studies and Cultural Affairs, Jackson State University; Joseph Hudson, Gulfport attorney; Roosevelt Taylor, former Chicago Bears football star; Wilson Evans, Longshoremen's Union president; and Gloria Watkins, WLBT-TV Community Affairs director.

The program also includes the trio and chorus of Fortier High School in New Orleans and the Jackson State Jazz Ensemble.

Speakers for Feb. 28 are Dr. Boyd James, Gulfport High School assistant principal; Isaac Gillam, director, NASA's Dryden Flight Research Center; Dr. John Kelly, marine resource specialist, USDA Grant advisory Service; and Ruth Campbell, Mississippi Educational Television producer-director.

Musical selections by Frank Hobson, Eddie Lyons, Mary Alice Bowser and the Desire Choir, and a fashion show are planned for the second day's activity.

Agencies and their representatives in the Association for Cultural Awareness are NASA - Ann Estendorf, Donald Coney and Ted Franklin; Rockwell - Joyce Lawrence and Linda Lull; Williams Wrecking and Construction Co. - Larry Williams; Naval Oceanographic Office - Carolyn Stallings, Juanita Whiteside, Clarence Joseph, Ed Weatherspoon and William Hollingsworth; Naval Oceanography Command - Jewell Gibson; Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity - Ed Dorsey and Joyce Ford; Computer Sciences Corp. - Barbara Jones; Lockheed - Mark Ashley; Rocketdyne - Evelyn Wells; Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant - Lawrence Kittell; Mason Chamberlain - B. Bernie Anderson; National Marine Fisheries Service - Sue Ellis; Pan American World Airways - Maurice Singleton; Sperry Support Services - Edna Bender; U. S. Army Corps of Engineer-Dee Colley; and U.S. Geological Survey - Gwen Woods.

Personnel in those stores asked the juvenile for identification when he attempted to purchase beer, Peterson pointed out.

"We feel this was a well organized check which involved the sheriff's department and the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments—we worked jointly on the problem," Peterson said.

Peterson said the five adults were charged with sale of alcoholic beverages to a minor and had posted $100 bonds. The two youths were charged with the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors.

"We feel there are other merchants distributing beer to minors and we will be checking in other areas of the county as well as making repeat visits re-checking those places we checked to-day," the sheriff warned.

Peterson emphasized further his office is "dead serious" about enforcing laws relating to sales of alcoholic beverages to minors.

"We feel from our experience in law enforcement that a lot of our problems stem from juveniles under the influence of alcohol," Peterson stated.

Windmills

council go ahead with the project and advertise for bids," Thriffley explained.

"Probably bids will be opened the beginning of April and construction can begin," Thriffley added.

"Two eight-bladed windmills ten feet in diameter, each on an 80-foot tower will be located at the Valena C. Jones Center supplying electricity for lights to the police department, fire station, senior citizens, civil defense and building inspector's offices," Thriffley elaborated.

"Then at night, the windmills will supply electricity for security lights at the center," Thriffley said.

"The windmills at the center will be engineered so we can mount police radio antennas and consolidate all the TV antennas on one tower. Doing this will alleviate the problem of worrying if a hurricane will blow the antennas down and also give us a higher radio tower than the police department presently uses," Thriffley reported.

"Bay Senior High School will also have two windmills on 80 foot towers which will take care of all of the school's lighting by day and all security lighting at night," Thriffley stated.

"City hall will have one two-bladed windmill 10 feet in length on a 40-foot tower to take care of all lighting during the day, generate security lighting during the nighttime and generate enough extra power to light the tennis court," Thriffley reported.

"We were also looking at placing one windmill on an 80 foot tower at the Ulman Avenue pier to provide lighting for fishing and security, but we ran into a problem of running 1,500 feet a cable and light fixtures, which will probably be outside the city's budget," he continued.

"So, we will possibly put this windmill at the Bay High baseball field which will also supply electricity for lighting the tennis courts and possibly the dressing room," Thriffley explained.

Thriffley said the windmills can withstand hurricane force winds and the towers will be similar to the light towers at St. Stanislaus High School's stadium.

Literature supplied by Entertech, a Norwich, Vt. company which manufactures and installs windmills explains "at least a 10-mile-per-hour wind is necessary for electrical generation, but the system automatically shuts down when wind speed reaches 40 m.p.h."

"The windmills will be interphased with regular electrical service so if the wind dies down, normal electrical service automatically cuts in," Thriffley explained.

"There are also safety features built in the windmills. If you produce more electricity than is being used, the system automatically directs electricity into power company lines. Also, if there is just a slight variation in wattage the entire system shuts down; this protects workers from electrification," Thriffley stated.

"We're not trying to compete with the power companies, but as a public entity, we have to find a hedge on inflation to keep our operating budget somewhat stable," Thriffley said.

"The windmills we're getting will only produce 110 volt current. A 220 volt generator isn't on the market yet, but next fall production of a 220 volt generator is expected," the councilman said.

Energy grants offered to individuals

A wood-fired hot water heater that heats a home, a roof-top greenhouse that not only heats and cools but feeds a family, and solar collectors from used beverage containers were among the 94 "energetic" ideas harvested from eight southern states in a new grassroots energy search by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE).

The 94 projects in DOE's Region IV will receive a total of $1,300,400 in grants under the Appropriate Energy Technology Small Grants Program.

States comprising the DOE's Region IV are: Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Purpose of this program is to provide basic funding to individuals and groups submitting a feasible idea for a new energy source or a better means of utilizing existing resources.

Although DOE has financed alternative energy research on the corporate level for a number of years as well as backing off-beat projects such as General Electric's experimental giant kelp farm for a natural gas source, this is the first time the American ingenuity of the nation's "backyard inventors" has been the target for such developmental funding by government.

Its success is indicated by the fact it is being offered again this year with almost two million dollars earmarked for Region IV applicants. Application deadline for this year is late April.

Those interested in applying should have projects which fall into these three categories:

Idea Development ($10,000 maximum for each grant) - for researching or developing new ideas or concepts for energy resources, as well as new uses of old or existing energy-related procedures, processes, systems or energy conservation measures.

Device Development ($50,000 maximum for each grant) - to construct models, develop experimental and/or testing devices to produce or improve useful small scale energy-related products.

Demonstration ($50,000 maximum for each grant) - for the evaluation of a small-scale technology or system under actual operation conditions to show that commercial application of the technology is technically and environmentally feasible.

Those eligible to apply are: individuals; local non-profit organizations and institutions; government agencies (state, interstate, county, local, colleges and universities); small businesses (independently owned and operated with less than 100 employees); and all American Indian tribes.

There are no specified limits on age, number of applications or times and application may be resubmitted.

Seminars to assist those interested in applying will be conducted in cooperation with state energy offices in each of the eight Region IV states during the month of March. Announcement of seminar locations and dates will be made in each state when area needs have been determined.

Those interested in further information about the Appropriate Technology Small Grants Program should call or write:

U.S. Department of Energy, Region IV, Appropriate Technology Small Grants Program, 1655 Peachtree St., N.E., Atlanta, GA 30309 (404) 681-2388 or contact the energy office in their state by calling 1-801-961-5082.

Marengo-Breland reign over OLG Carnival

By JANET McQUEEN
Our Lady of the Gulf Carnival Association staged its 47th annual Carnival Ball Friday, Feb. 15 in Our Lady's Academy Gymnasium with Mr. E. J. Marengo and Mrs. Sherlyn Breland reigning as king and queen.

Theme of the ball - "La Roma" - was depicted in setting of a Roman palace with marble statues and formal garden highlighted with a working fountain in the center.

The color motif was derived from flora of Roman hillside, gardens, lakes and the native flag of Italy.

His Royal Majesty, King Carnival XLVII, 1980, was introduced by Pete Chapman, master of ceremonies.

Mr. Marengo was attired in a formal white tuxedo with white sequined lapels and vest. A jeweled medallion hung from a silver chain around his neck and he greeted royal subjects with a silver jeweled scepter.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Haas, King and Queen Carnival XLVI, 1979, were presented and promenaded the ballroom floor in a farewell tribute. They were followed by the Grand Duke and Duchess of 1979, Mr. Billy Sills and Mrs. Madeline Prendergast.

The ladies of the royal court of Carnival XLVII were introduced and escorted around the ballroom floor in a traditional march. They wore glittering gowns in colors symbolic of the colors of Rome, accented by Roman arm bands affixed with complimentary flowers.

Members of the court included Mrs. Christy LaFontaine escorted by Mr. Robert LaFontaine, Mrs. Pat Seuzeneau escorted by Mr. Jerry Seuzeneau, Mrs. Lauren LaFontaine escorted by Mr. Terrell LaFontaine, Mrs. Lujan Carter escorted by Mr. John Carter and Mrs. Dianne Christenberry escorted by Mr. Robert Christenberry.

Also, Ms. Betty Noto escorted by Mr. Les Owens, Mrs. Kathleen Monti escorted by Mr. Joseph Monti, Mrs. Judy Fletcher escorted by Mr. Ronnie Fletcher, Mrs. Joan Bennett escorted by Mr. Larry Bennett and Mrs. Mary Frances Seymour escorted by Mr. Wilmer Seymour.

And, Mrs. Mary Dempsey escorted by Mr. Tom Dempsey, Mrs. Gaylene Whitfield escorted by Mr. Buddy Whitfield, Mrs. Gloria Ladner escorted by Mrs. Larry Ladner, Miss Mary Beth Gex escorted by Mr. Bob Stricklin, Miss Nicole Ferguson escorted by Mr. Chris Hall, Mrs. Marie Scarborough escorted by Mr. John Scarborough and Carnival Association President Victor Frankiewicz introduced the Grand Duke and Duchess of Carnival XLVII 1980 Mr. and Mrs. James Tull.

Mrs. Tull wore an ivory gown featuring a softly draped bodice and slim skirt. Her jewelry, with stones set in gold, captured all the warm colors worn by the royal court.

Her tiara was set with autora borealis stones and she carried a cattelya orchid complimentary to her ensemble.

Her Royal Highness, Queen of Carnival XLVII, 1980, Mrs. Breland, entered escorted by Mr. M. J. Gléber, executive director. She was attired in a lovely gown of white chiffon with empire styling. The entire bodice was encrusted with stone of crystal and topaz and silver and gold

Mrs. Larry (Sherlyn) Breland and Mr. E. J. Marengo

rhinestones. A band of crystal drops marked the edge of the bodice where it was joined by the sequin-sprinkled, softly flowing skirt. She wore a mantle of white velvet bordered and lined with gold lame and decorated with sequins and stone complimentary to her gown. Her jeweled regal collar was topped with rhinestone-sprinkled white plumes. She wore a glittering crown of silver rhinestones and carried an orchid decorated, jeweled scepter.

Pages to the king and queen were Misses Kristi Leigh Breland and Chari Leigh Thomas. Serving as pages for the grand duke and duchess were Miss Desiree Bennett and Master Steven Bouis.

Following the introduction of the Royal Court, entertainment was provided by the following:

Cold, rainy weather postponed the Mardi Gras parade until Sunday but festivities began at the Yacht Club at 3:30 p.m. Saturday afternoon with an informal reception for King Luther Grice, his queen Lee Peterson, King Harrie Devine, his queen Ida Mae Snow and their courts.

A combo played dance music to a large crowd of loyal subjects and maskers.

Bob Pflugfelder served as master of ceremonies at the carnival ball for a sell-out crowd at the Country Club where the royal couples were formally presented to their people.

Rodeo Queen Donna Gendusa entertained by singing. Captain John McDonnell acted as grand marshal of the Diamondhead Mardi Gras parade and the following clubs, groups or individuals entered floats. Sylvia and Darrell Pross; the Bares family; the Robinson family; the Hertel family; Jimmy and Stephanie Duplechin; Wally and Alice Little; Ladies Auxilliary to the DVFD; Bob and Marge Pflugfelder; Diamondhead Garden Club; Graybeal, McPhail and Johnston of management; Tennis Club; Rick and Dot Rickson; Skip Horne; Gina Lenfant; Richard Criss, Moran Riding Club, the Swartzendruber family and Clyde and Bonnie Bonwell.

The new officers of the Diamondhead Ladies Golf Association Millie Rubin, president; Corrine Ladner, vice-president and tournaments; Eva Bond, secretary; Sylvia Pross, treasurer; Ida Mae Snow, handicaps; Earline Russon and Margaret Price, assistant tournament committee; Molly Matrang, trophies; Earlene Russo and Margaret Price, rules; Gloria Forstall, publicity; Dorothy Booth, social; and Jo Gatipon and Eva Bond, co-chair 9-hole tournaments.

The Gulf Coast Delegate is Doris Wattingney with Corinne Ladner as alternate and Ida Mae Snow is the coast area representative to the Mississippi Women's Golf Association.

Bob and Dusty McBee and Sid and Eura Watson tied for the lead in the Tuesday Mardi Gras Scramble.

Saul and Millie Rubin placed second. Mr. and Mrs. Mager third. The Lincoln Warnes fourth and Al and Catherine Dousson fifth.

Charlie was high scorer in the ladies Wednesday morning bridge session. Bonnie Bonwell was second. Attendance was down slightly due to Mardi Gras travellers. Diamondhead Men's Golf Association had a large turnout for the Wednesday tourney. Bob Solomon, Jack Chown, R.B. Hardin and Herman Makofsky comprised the first place foursome.

Jack Chown won individual first place honors. Walter Hall took second, Austin Price placed third. Leshin, Dean, Cutler and Pflugfelder tied for fourth.

Bill Bradley and Lorraine Heier request members send $25 dues for the Diamondhead Community Association to P.O. Box 12, Bay St. Louis, 39520.

St. Augustine Prayer Group to sponsor author-lecturer

Noted author and lecturer Mother Angelica will make a rare public appearance at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis at 7 p.m. Sunday, March 2.

She is authoress of more than 50 mini-books, 195 different tape cassette presentations on spiritual subjects, a 13-segment TV series called "Our Hermitage," and 60 audio-visual tapes for the Christian Broadcasting Network on how to apply Scripture to daily living.

Her appearance in Bay St. Louis is being arranged by the St. Augustine's prayer group and will mark the first appearance of Mother Angelica in Mississippi.

Mother Angelica's work is reported to have reached and involved people in every state and 33 foreign countries. "We have a miracle a day," says Mother Angelica of Our Lady of the Angels Monastery in Birmingham, Ala.

Each day 11 Poor Clare Nuns at Our Lady of the Angels produce 25,000 mini-books in their print shop managed by Mother Angelica. All are distributed free and the ministry survives solely on donations.

"The Eternal Word" TV studio is the latest addition to the monastery begun by Mother Angelica.

Born in Canton, Ohio as Rita Antionette Francis, she attended St. Anthony's School, Allen Public School and graduated from McKinley

High.

After high school she went to work in the advertising department of Timken Roller Bearing Co. in Canton.

In her early 20's she became ill and experienced a healing which led her to enter the convent and devote her life to the church.

Soon years later, while scrubbing floors in a monastery, Mother Angelica fell and injured her spine.

A doctor told her that she had only a 50-50 chance of ever walking again. She made a promise to God that if He would allow her to walk she would found a monastery somewhere in the South.

Her recovery, after a delicate operation, left her in a leg brace which she still must wear.

She convinced her superior of her dedication to follow through on her promise. Funds were needed if what she had promised was to be accomplished.

The sisters started making fishing lures and a column in a Catholic newspaper, "Our Sunday Visitor" told of their making lures.

They received orders from all over the country and the receipts, $11,000, was exactly what was needed to buy the land near Birmingham.

She will meet informally after her talk in the school cafeteria. For further information, contact Mrs. Charline Martinovich, 304 Ruella Ave., Bay St. Louis, 39520, or phone, 467-4452.

Pulpit Points

BY DR. L.S. WALKER

PEACE: It seems to have escaped a much-troubled world of mankind so much in need of it.

Today, as in ages past, people talk about peace; award peace prizes; sing about peace; donate great sums of money in search of peace; and even vote for peace, but to no avail!

As the prophet Jeremiah once put it: "We looked for peace, but no good came; and for a time of health, and behold trouble!" - Jer. 8:15.

Men who do not have peace in their own heart, in their own home, in their community, or in their own country, gather around "world peace conference" tables to talk about peace.

How sad! How utterly vain! This is true because real peace depends on inward, not outward, circumstances. There will never be peace in this world - in any form; anywhere; by any means without the Prince of Peace!

Well does Paul the apostle describe such efforts of men in search for peace in these last days: "For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape." - I Thess. 5:3.

Hear the words of Jesus Christ, the only Lord God and Prince of Peace:

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid!" - John 14:27.

And again the Master said: "In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world!" - John 16:33.

Perfect peace - the kind that starts on the inside and works out - can be found only in Jesus Christ; for the Bible says, "He is our peace" - Eph. 2:14.

You can have peace in your own life, though the world around you be like the troubled sea. You cannot purchase peace; you cannot bargain nor barter for it; you cannot legislate it; but you can have it! It's free! As a child of God, it is yours for the asking!

"Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" - Rom. 5:1.

Peace for the individual, and peace for nations comes only on God's terms. There is a sweet, sweet peace for those who wait upon the Lord for all things - a peace the world cannot give; neither can it take it away.

You cannot be at peace with your neighbor without being at peace within yourself. You cannot be at peace within yourself until you are at peace with God.

"And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus" - Phil. 4:7.

Finally, my friends, "Let the peace of God rule in your hearts..." - Col. 3:15.

50-Plus to sponsor get-acquainted event

Retired and middle age adults, and younger people interested in information about growing older, are invited to a 50-Plus Get Acquainted Supper Friday at 6 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of Mississippi City United Methodist Church.

The church is located at 219 Courthouse Road in Gulfport.

The covered dish supper is sponsored by Total Living For 50-Plus, a non-denominational Mississippi association which is devoted to the spiritual, emotional, social, educational, and physical well-being of senior and middle age adults.

The organization includes some 100 members on the Gulf Coast.

Reverend David Ray, who founded 50-Plus last year, will be guest speaker.

Ray is author of five books including 40-Plus Handbook: The Fine Art of Growing Older. Released by Word Book Publishers in March, the book is in its third printing.

REV. DAVID RAY

Ray is a resident of Jackson and is considered a popular speaker throughout the state. Formerly, he was senior minister of Central Presbyterian Church.

The supper meeting in Gulfport is to include a fellowship hour as well as Dr. Ray's speech.

Further information is available by phoning Mrs. Frances Pennington or Mrs. Edward Lindsey at 1-896-7626.

Thoughts won't go away

Q. I am not happy, but I want to be. I work all the time and don't get enough rest for my mind and body. I am bad at jumping to conclusions. When I get something in my mind deep enough I cannot get it out and forget about it. The thought lingers day in and day out. Some thoughts are evil and some moral. Can you advise me on how to cultivate happiness?

A. Take charge of your mind; you can do what you will with it. Don't seek happiness as an end in itself, but rather work on mind control. Remember that the happiest person is the one who thinks the happiest thoughts.

Every morning when you arise you have two choices: To be happy or to be unhappy.

Practice the "as if" principle. Act as if you were happy and all your nature will strive to be as you act, because that is what you deeply desire.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet, 12 Steps To a Happy and Successful Life, which is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

In prison and forgotten

Q. I've been locked up in prison for a year and haven't heard or seen any of my family. I wonder if they care how I'm doing or if I'm still alive. I used to write to them all the time. But it doesn't do any good. They know where I'm at and why I'm here. I'm 20 years old and incarcerated in an honor camp. What should I do, forget about my family like they are doing me and go live my own life?

A. Not at all. Just keep on loving your family and write to them regularly. Let them see (if you can truthfully say so) that you are becoming a more mature and responsible person.

Be sure to tell them what your hopes are for the future and how you are preparing for it. Although they may be ashamed and resentful, they are not acting properly in not writing to you or coming to see you. They are showing their hurt. But if you act in a responsible manner the chances are that they will also, in due time.

MAINSTREET REVIVALIST-Reverend David Price, pastor of St. Mark's United Methodist Church on the Ross Barnett Reservoir near Jackson, will serve as evangelism minister for "Proclaim The Word," special Lenten services this week at Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis and Waveland United Methodist Church on Vacation Lane. The services are slated for 7 p.m. tonight and Monday at the Main Street church and Tuesday and Wednesday in Waveland.

Work ethic questioned in senior values

A Jackson pastor told Mississippi ministers and laymen meeting here recently that church leaders may need to reexamine the entire work ethic tradition when it applies to ministering to older adults.

"We may need to examine our whole Protestant work ethic, because it gives us the impression throughout life that 'the only time we're worthy is when we're working hard at something,'" said the Rev. Jack Loflin, pastor of the Broadmeadow United Methodist Church in Jackson.

Rev. Loflin said this work philosophy can cause some serious emotional problems for older adults confronting retirement.

He said people who strictly follow the ethic can build guilt feelings which are difficult to suppress when the time to retire comes, and there is no longer any need or opportunity to "work hard" at something.

Rev. Loflin was one of several speakers at the annual Church and Community Leadership Institute on the Mississippi State University campus.

The institute is sponsored by the Mississippi Church and Community Fellowship and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. The 1980 theme was "The Older Adult in Church and Community."

In his presentation, Rev. Loflin stressed that changes in society have made the aged an important audience for the modern church.

"We have seen the emergence of many formal organizations outside the family which are providing relationships and services for the aged previously assumed by the family," Rev. Loflin said. "Along with these phenomena have come changes in patterns of social behavior."

He said the present mobile society where families no longer live in the immediate vicinity of parents and children has made it difficult for the family to provide the kind of services the aged need.

"The aged as a group are the fastest growing minority in our society," Rev. Loflin said. "Because of their increasing numbers, the church is in a unique position to render service."

Rev. Loflin said the minister who climbs into the pulpit one Sunday to discover few young people in the congregation should not panic. He said the congregation may be simply reflecting changes in the community the church is serving.

"Too many churches continue to aim their entire church programs at the young, when their congregations have grown older," Rev. Loflin said.

He said churches which find themselves in that kind of position are having to reconsider church programs. "In fact, he said, 'almost every church is now considering what its role is for senior adults.'"

For the modern church to serve the needs of older adults, Rev. Loflin said church leaders must first

"become comfortable with their own aging." He listed a number of considerations churches might take toward establishing ministries for older adults. Among them are:

-Recognize many of the stereotypes and myths surrounding aging and work to replace them with facts. "We need to develop a positive view of man," Rev. Loflin said. "The aging need to feel acceptable in their own right and not merely by what they produce."

-The church must assume a primary role in educating society on the facts of aging. The minister said information on preparation for retirement needs to be presented to help people avoid the pitfalls of aging such as finances, housing and transportation.

-Develop an adequate program for older adults in church and community. Rev. Loflin said society should make certain older adults continue to have opportunities for personal growth and learning. He said older adults need to feel they have not been put on a shelf. They need to look upon retirement as a time to learn new skills and to gather information for continued personal growth.

Rev. Loflin listed a number of activities where older adults might find avenues for continued growth.

Rev. Loflin said these matters are often left unattended because of the element of finality which surrounds them.

continued growth after retirement including creative writing, painting, current events studies, talent development (chorus, dance or music), travel, community service (hospital volunteers, nursing home visitation) and special assistance programs (fix-it services, medical consultation).

-Understanding health care and institutional needs. He said people need to learn early the role nursing homes and other institutional care facilities now play in our society. People need to know how to cope with sociological problems associated with admission to nursing homes (how the resident views the move, family biases, family adjustment and family distress in crisis).

-Education on the process of death and dying. He said learning the facts surrounding death is an important educational mission for the church.

Preparation of wills and legacies, expressing feelings openly about death with family and peers, and exploring the services of funeral homes are all important considerations in a ministry for older adults.

Rev. Loflin said these matters are often left unattended because of the element of finality which surrounds them.

St. Rose Gospel Choir will sing at The Morning Star Baptist Church Sunday at 2 p.m.; Main Street United Methodist Church Monday at 7 p.m.; St. Rose at 9 a.m. Mass today; and Thursday at Valena C. Jones United Methodist Church, 7 p.m.

In recognition of Black History Month today a special mass will be celebrated with guest speaker Rev. Harry Tartt, pastor of Valena C. Jones United Methodist.

Today at 5 p.m. an hour of prayer for vocations in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament will be observed followed by Benediction at 5:45 p.m.

The Altar Society will meet after mass today in the rectory.

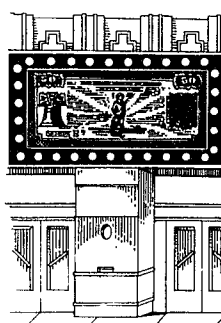

The Robert Weaver Sr. Family will perform the service part of the liturgy during Wednesday's special Lenten Mass at 7:30 p.m.

Friday, Feb. 29 is the beginning of the Semi Pro Basketball Tournament at St. Augustine's Gymnasium which will run for four weeks.

KEEPING IT SIMPLE

Every young writer or anyone who aspires to be one is told quite early to keep it simple. And every old writer doggedly tries to stick to that good advice although at times he may use some of the more neglected words when they best convey the shade of meaning intended. Speech makers should follow the same admonition. A case in point occurred recently while I attended an agricultural conference and admittedly was forced to mentally stumble through what could and should have been an easy-going easy-to-understand message. I brought both note pad and camera to the meeting but was unable to use either effectively for reasons that follow.

I learned long ago that usually it is best to take pictures early in the meeting in order to take advantage of the come-on animation and jokes. For some speeches and audiences, lethargy may set in shortly.

Take the recent meeting as an example. It was soon after lunch and I covered several conferences in different rooms. I was a little late for one group and as I moved to the front to focus the camera I noticed that a meeting profile shot would feature four men on the front row totally zonked out—sleep and leaning. I returned the camera to its bag amid a few understanding grins among those still awake.

In yet another meeting I better understood why some were induced to sleep. Several slippery phrases got by before a verbal pattern caused me to consider the phrases themselves instead of the intended meanings which I couldn't fully understand. "We must maximize our return on the investment" flowed through me and I jotted it down in awe as spoken, then paraphrased it in my notes as "make a good profit." Next came "intensity our consciousness" which I parlayed as "notice," smiling smugly because my consciousness indeed was intensifying.

Then we were told to "be creative in our approaches to compensating labor." I never quite understood, but there was definitely food served there for creative thought. I wondered about "it—like paychecks passed out in an Easter basket, or the boss sobbing feverishly as he passed out greenbacks. Or maybe, it might be creative to meet the payroll with a partial sack of groceries in lieu of money. I'm afraid I never really got much of a handle on that one. Maybe it meant more or less pay or none at all. The latter truly would be innovative!

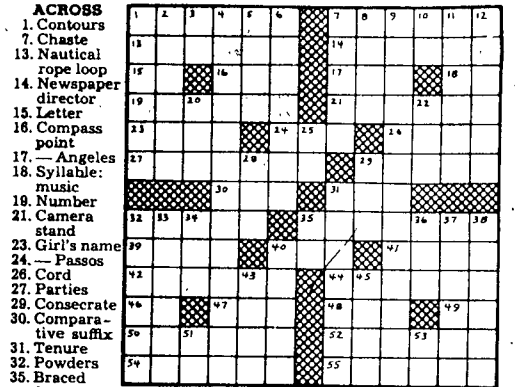

I was still figuring on the possibilities when I came around during a statement describing "the consumer profile of a new poultry product." I didn't know whether to associate the profile with the consumer or the bird, but more seriously considered the former since poultry aren't very tall—much less dismembered, packaged or creamed. But you aren't sure. You do learn however when you intensify your consciousness.

The speaker made mid-stream before paddling a few more fuzzy ones our way as he described "conceptualizing a new poultry concept." I winced. Then he referred to an upcoming poultry product as "an acceptable prototype" which led to "positive effects on the viability of our industry" which hinted to me just how far chickens have gotten since leaving the chicken house but I wasn't sure where.

But then what should I expect when I often find even far simpler word combinations hard to understand? Even at my local church I have been forced into the corner of faith to comprehend the real meaning of the constraining words to be a "cheerful giver." Especially as practiced, since I've never witnessed an awful lot of smiles as the offering plate made its way through the pews.

DOUBLE COUPON VALUES

1. Clip national manufacturers' "cents off" coupons from newspapers, magazines, circulars, etc. Check the dates — expired coupons can not be honored. (This offer does not apply to coupons from JITNEY or any other retailer or to "free" coupons.)
 2. Bring your coupons to JITNEY.
 3. Purchase the coupon products in the specified quantities and sizes.
 4. Present your coupons to our cashier. We will redeem them at DOUBLE their value! (We'll refund up to but not more than the total price of the item.)
- Limit 1 coupon per item. Limit one cigarette and one coffee coupon per family. The customer must pay any applicable sales tax.
